From: Karen Lancaster <lancaster.karen@gmail.com>

Karen: Wow, I just checked in several times tonight -- do you stay on camera all evening long?
What are you doing

me: answering a journalist's questions on a private message

me: sometimes they show up here and interview me

Karen: Well, your haircut does look a little better to me this evening.

me: everyone likes it

Karen: But do you think it's a good idea to just sit there while people get the scope out of your apt?

Karen: Especially in light of the phone message you got today?

me: yes

Karen: Are you working or just playing games

me: did you see this Rick Perry ad?

me: I'm working

Karen: Are you writing the book?

me: researching, mostly

Karen: OK, well it just looks weird, as if you're bored, letting people watch you be bored?

Karen: I would think you'd want to turn off the camera, get in bed with some hot chocolate and your laptop to research instead of people making random comments

me: go read a book

Karen: Well, nighty night love you.

me: love you too

Karen: Call when you get up, your apt will probably be cold if electricity/heater is off?

me: night

Karen: dont forget you have that flashlight for tomorrow if it's dark

me: k, thanks
